Not sure whether to play Curb Your Enthusiasm theme or actually get really worried about this.

Republicans claim to fear left-wing authoritarianism — but there's no such thing

Yes, dictators sometimes cloak themselves in "socialism." But tyranny here and elsewhere is always right-wing.

John Lennon was not a radical lefty.

But that was 1971. Lennon's political radicalism was in fact a relatively short lived affair, as readers of his collection of (mostly) late 1970s writings, Skywriting by Word of Mouth, will know

Lennon much regretted his earlier association with the radical left, as the contents of the chapter entitled "We'd all love to see the plan" (quoting from the song Revolution) make clear.

Writing in 1978, he stated "The biggest mistake Yoko and I made in that period was allowing ourselves to become influenced by the male macho 'serious revolutionaries', and their insane ideas about killing people to save them from capitalism and, or communism (depending on your point of view) We should have stuck to our own way of working for peace: bed ins, billboards, etc."

I talked about this over two years ago and was on the receiving end of a huge media demonization campaign.
They're somewhat quiet about it now.

WATCH: Tucker Carlson takes a look back at public health hypocrisy in San Francisco during the Spanish Flu, and the photograph that changed everything.

Today, we see the EXACT same dishonest behavior from San Francisco hypocrite Nancy Pelosi.

In the UK, the only remaining 'acceptable' form of police brutality is against white, working class people protesting against lockdowns & vaccine passports.

The media will ignore it, the left will openly encourage it.

Why are vaccine passports being introduced for large venues, while negative tests are being eliminated, when we're told vaccines don't fully stop the spread of the virus?

No one has properly addressed this fundamentally stupid premise, yet government policy is based on it.

Interesting study here which finds that having had the virus means you're 13x as immune to Covid as if you're double jabbed, but haven't had it. You're less vulnerable; less dangerous, so why are antibody tests not valid? It's not science, it's political.

TW are simply advanced low-value models. As low-value maleness, at its core is a hatred/fear/envy of women, they are ubermales

No, journalists are not "heroes" and no amount of money will change that.

Firefighters are heroes, soldiers are heroes.

Most of you just write blogs based off of Twitter outrage. Others harm people's lives with smears and lies.

That's not heroic.

During conviction of Count Dankula (for a satirical YouTube video), it was reportedly mentioned that the UK is a "multi-cultural" society.

Apparently, you can't have multi-culturalism and free speech at the same time.

That time when Oprah manufactured a fake racist incident as a callous vehicle for self promotion.

Winfrey also found herself in hot water in 2013 when, without any proof, she appeared to manufacture a racial controversy in order to promote her latest movie, Lee Daniels's The Butler. Appearing on Entertainment Tonight, Winfrey accused a Swiss shopgirl of racism.

"I say to the woman, 'Excuse me, may I see that [$38,000 purse] right above your head?' And she says to me, 'No, it's too expensive.' She refused to get it." Winfrey dramatically explained.

But Winfrey refused to back up her story by identifying the store or the "racist" clerk. Eventually, though, the store and the shopgirl were located, and the young woman accused of racism by the most powerful woman in the world, openly declared Winfrey a liar.

> I didn't hurt anyone. I don't know why someone as great as her must cannibalize me on TV . . If it had all taken place as she claimed, why has she not complained the next day at the wedding of Tina Turner with Trudie Goetz, my boss? She was there also at the Turner wedding as a guest. I don't understand it. I spoke to Oprah Winfrey in English. My English is OK but not excellent, unfortunately. I didn't know who she was when she came into the store. That wouldn't have made any difference if I had.

And what was Winfrey's bizarre response to this hideous "racist" adding insult to injury by declaring her a liar? Outrage? Fury? Nope. Winfrey backed off with a non-apology apology about being "sorry" that the incident got blown up."

Also, how can she smell them when CNN itself reported that sarin was used in the attack? Sarin is odorless.

Are any celebrities going to donate a single dollar to David Dorn's family?

African-American man shot in the head by looters as he tried to defend his business.

Or are you only interested in raising millions to bail out criminals?

90 per cent of adults in the country will be vaccinated by then.

Can it be any clearer that this is no longer about just a pandemic?

What they're doing is criticizing a 'legitimate' gov't. That's their demand. And that will happen in a day or two, probably on 9/11 (why not?) after Biden, because of his incompetence, bellies up and grants them statehood in order to release the 6 planes of hostages.

Apparently @Guardian Once you enter the article itself, the headline goes "Taliban name all male Afghan cabinet [...]" (without the explicit "diverse" bit) but it is phrased just as on Watson's screenshot on their main page

The Australian bushfires were caused & made worse by 'green' environmentalist regulations that outlawed land owners from creating firebreaks, allowing the fires to spread.

It has nothing to do with "climate change".

"So what if ordinary people hate us, the government obeys us, we're the 'rebellion'!" No you're not, you stupid hippies. You're the establishment.

Paul Joseph Watson added,

Extinction Rebellion UK @XRebellionUK

So what if Extinction Rebellion isn't popular? We're protesting to bring about change and it's working. We're told that in order to be successful, XR must offer people hope. Sorry, but what we all need is the full truth about the climate crisis. 1/16 https://www.independent.co.uk/climate change/opinion/extinction rebellion protests uk climate crisis b1912418.html pic.twitter.com/KHlfJ0z4Kt

Snopes is trying to "fact check" a satire site into oblivion.

Only authoritarians are afraid of humor.

Readers of the Bee,

We apologize for the length of this note, but we wanted to bring something important to your attention Last week, Snopes fact-checked us again We're pretty used to that. But this time, instead of merely rating the article "false," they questioned whether our work qualifies as satire, and even went so far as to suggest that we were deliberately deceiving our readers Basically, they treated us as a source of intentionally misleading fake news, rather than as the legitimate, well-known satire publication that we are. This is a big deal.

As you know, fake news—which is distinguished from satire by its intent to mislead—was widely considered a serious issue in the last election cycle As a result, social media networks like Facebook began partnering with fact-checkers to try and limit the distribution of fake news on their platforms. Snopes was one of them. At one point, a piece of ours was rated "false" by Snopes, prompting Facebook to threaten us with limitations and demonetization. We made a stink about this, and after some media attention shed light on the problem, Facebook apologized for their handling of the matter and admitted that satire is not the same as fake news

We came out on top last time, but this latest smear from Snopes is both dishonest and disconcerting. We have no choice but to take it very seriously

If Twitter is now banning "extremist groups," why does Antifa and Westboro Baptist Church still have accounts? Could it possibly be because neither of those groups will have an impact on the mid-terms that is negative for Democrats?

Police officers forced to drive ambulances because people are "going out more." The NHS is not fit for purpose.

– reports

The NHS is under such pressure in London that 70 police officers have been drafted in to drive ambulances, reports say

According to The Sunday Telegraph, they have been called in to help following a huge increase in demand in recent weeks

They first volunteered to temporarily help out the London Ambulance Service (LAS) in January, but returned to their usual policing role as pressure on the NHS eased in the spring.

But the past three months are said to have been among the busiest on record for 999 calls, with the easing of lockdown in June fuelling a rise in emergency incidents as people started going out

"People must say what they know to be untrue."

Wokeness will emancipate us

What we know to be true is inadmissible

Wokeness, writes Dalrymple, is that way that > inconvenient truths, no matter how obvious, may be overcome by a change of locution. We must say what we do not believe, which has the advantage that there is no better way of undermining probity. People must say what they know to be untrue but which they must strive to believe, for a population without probity can be easily moulded into that perfect virtue that will lead to the heaven on earth of total liberation.

An Iraq veteran gave George W. Bush a stark reminder this past weekend that although he's now a liberal media darling, there are plenty of Americans who remember the lies that led to millions of deaths.

Dr [redacted]
Reply

Dear Mr Watson

Your result is POSITIVE for the SARS CoV-2 spike protein antibody 40.8 U/ml

This means you have COVID-19 antibodies. Unfortunately at this point in time we can't say exactly what that means about long term immunity yet.

Our laboratory states this test has a specificity of 99.98%. This means that in a group of 10,000 people who do not have antibodies, the test will report a negative result in 9,998 of those people. This means that out of every 10,000 cases it may be told they have antibodies when they do not. They have also reported a sensitivity of 98.8%. This means in a group of 10,000 people who have antibodies to coronavirus in their blood, the test will identify 9,880 of them as being positive (correct), with only 120 out of every 10,000 being told they're negative when they actually have detectable antibodies in blood.

While the risk of infection or reinfection is low after vaccination or natural infection it is not zero. You should still practise social distancing and follow [redacted] in other areas as before. You could potentially still be a carrier of the virus and pass it on to others.

NB: If you have already had one dose of a Covid vaccine, please make sure you attend your second dose appointment as advised, regardless of the results of this test.

Keep an eye out for guidance from the government on what your result might mean to you in the future.

If you want to contribute to the national effort of mapping current and past infections, please consider adding your [redacted] to [redacted] in conjunction with King's College London [redacted].

Please let us know if you have any other questions.

Thank you for using Superdrug.

Kind regards

What they're doing is criticizing a 'legitimate' gov't. That's their demand And that will happen in a day or two, probably on 9/11 (why not?) after Biden, because of his incompetence, bellies up and grants them statehood in order to release the 6 planes of hostages

Apparently @guardian Once you enter the article itself, the headline goes "Taliban name all male Afghan cabinet [ ]" (without the explicit "diverse" bit) but it is phrased just as on Watson's screenshot on their main page

What they really meant to say was 98% of people who never wear a facemask tested negative.

What a silly attempt at psychological manipulation.

Masks are about compliance, not health.

After my successful Achilles surgery on Friday, I was rushed to the ER on Saturday after suffering a mild heart attack. Over the previous two weeks, had DVT (deep vein thrombosis) which was caused by my Achilles rupture. This is an extremely common outcome for such injuries.

Marc Lamont Hill

I'm seeing videos and tweets from anti-vaxers saying that I developed blood clots from the vaccine. This is ridiculous and completely baseless. For some, it is a cynical and dishonest claim. For others, it's a lack of understanding of how medicine and science work.

Police to offer 'verification check' to prove they're police officers.

Wayne Couzens was a genuine police officer. This would have stopped nothing.

He was able to get away with it because he was enforcing bullshit 'COVID rules' to detain and arrest Sarah Everard.

Facebook "whistleblower" Frances Haugen is a vital media and political asset because she advances their quest for greater control over online political discourse.

Their aim is not to erode Facebook and Google's vast power but to transfer it to themselves for their own use.

There's no doubt, at least to me, that Facebook and Google are grave menaces. Along with Apple and Amazon, they have become classic monopolies.

But none of the anger or activism in Washington and among liberal outlets is about solving that. They want to be the overseers of it.

Glenn Greenwald @ggreenwald 1h
Of course the usual media villains spreading disinformation and unhinged conspiracy theories: QAnon boards, Facebook boomers, 4Chan teenagers.

But corporate media outlets do exactly the same as a model, on purpose and it's far more damaging because their platforms bigger.

34 155 1.1K

Glenn Greenwald @ggreenwald 1h
Over the last 5 years, the most disinformation, lies and demented conspiracy theories and the most damage done have emanated from the corporate media outlets that sermonize most. And they're the most sinister, because they want to censor speech so only their lies are heard.

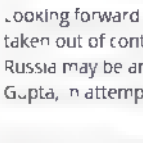
24 259 1.2K

Glenn Greenwald @ggreenwald 1h
This is not hyperbole: in the liberal sector of the corporate media by far the largest and most dominant wing, lying and disinformation are not prohibited or even frowned up. It's encouraged and rewarded as long as it's directed at the ideological enemies of the audience.

28 174 949

Glenn Greenwald @ggreenwald 1h
People have caught on to the fact that the least trustworthy and honest sources of information are these corporate media outlets. After the frauds of the Iraq War & Russiagate, how could they not? These outlets see the same data we do showing this.

7 108 665



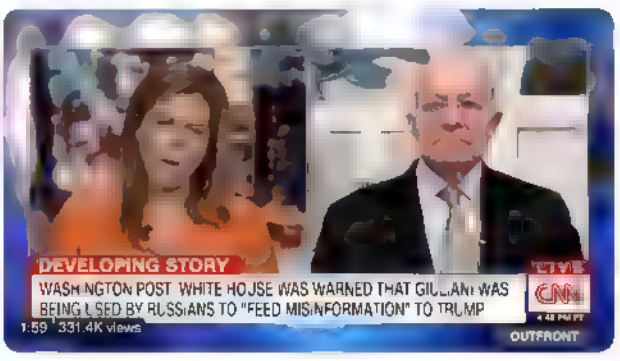
Glenn Greenwald @ggreenwald 1h
This is why there is no higher priority for liberal corporate outlets literally no higher priority than inducing more and more internet censorship. They want to silence the independent voices documenting their lies, and eliminate all competitors to create a captive audience.

15 209 1.0K

Glenn Greenwald @ggreenwald 1h
That Rogan clip I posted above from an anonymous small Twitter account already has 1.8 million views. The real numbers way higher since others also posted it. It's been years since CNN got anywhere close to 1.8 million on watching their network. Therein lies the desperation.

29 199 1.3K

Glenn Greenwald @ggreenwald 58m
The least surprising aspect of all of this is that the first person CNN sent out to blatantly lie about Joe Rogan was a liar so underwhelming that even CNN's own medical expert was forced to admit it shouldn't have been said. What was liberal hero, Jim @Acosta.



Stephen L. Miller @redsteeze
Here is the clip from Jim Acosta that Joe Rogan was referencing with Gupta.

Now that CNN's own medical expert explicitly said what they broadcast about Rogan was false, will CNN retract it on air & apologize to their viewers & Rogan? Or will they ignore it as they and all outlets did with the @SchreckReports book proving they lied about the Biden emails?

One last point: this Rogan clip shows why outlets like CNN and MSNBC stopped inviting on dissenters to their Russiagate tales. It's so much easier to lie when you have people on who nod their head at everything you say. It's much harder when you're confronted as Rogan did there.

That Rogan clip I posted above -- from an anonymous small Twitter account -- already has 1.8 million views. The real number is way higher since others also posted it. It's been years since CNN got anywhere close to 1.8 million watching their network. Therein lies the desperation.

This is the most repellent part of this CNN debacle with Rogan. I understand that young journalists refrain from saying what they think out of fear: that's the climate of the industry.

But Gupta has total career security: why would he so publicly relinquish his dignity this way?

David Amess denied last rites.

As word spread, a Roman Catholic priest, Father Jeffrey Woolnough, arrived at the police cordon stretching across tree-lined Eastwood Road North offering to administer the last rites to the devoutly Catholic MP.

He said: 'The officers said that because it was a crime scene, and also the nature of the scene, it just wasn't possible.'

On the disparity of discourse of today's events

Can't help but notice this disparity in language between this atrocity and Jo Cox.

With in hours of her murder, the entire world was unambigious that she was 'murdered", it was "terrorism" inspired by right wing extremism.

Meanwhile Sir David has 'passed away", he suffered a 'death".

Call it cynical, call it too soon, but once you see the disparity and lack of parity in these atrocities based on the purely on the perpetrator and victim due to the politics or characteristics, you'll never unsee it.

And once again, by next week, it'll be old news and there'll be no serious attempt to address the underlying factors in this debased, degenerate

Our murdered MP David Amess opposed state power:

1) Anti lockdown (echo-news.co.uk/news/18846015. ...)
2) Anti mask mandates (yellowad.co.uk/southend-mp-ca ...)
3) Anti vaccine passports (parallelparliament.co.uk/mp/david-amess ...)
4) Big Pharma critic (twitter.com/draseemmalhotr ...)
5) Civil liberties campaigner:

Carl Eve @CarlEveCrime
"I remember David Amess as an MP who did not always have a harmonious relationship with his local paper but was willing to join forces with it to stand up for his constituents and their families.

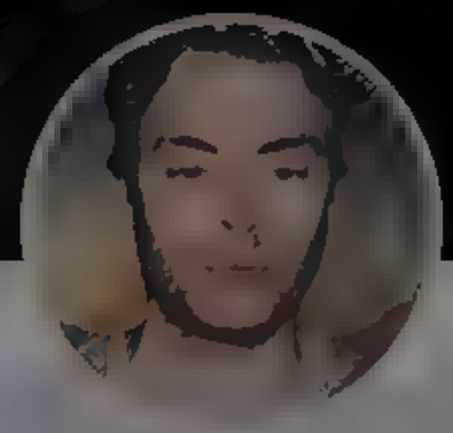
This is the problem with the mask argument really.



We, like everywhere else, had masks through all our worst peaks and mask nazis say "Well it would have been worse without them".

Then somewhere without masks has a rise and they say "It wouldn't happen if you had masks"

Making this point again cause no one has an answer.

Mask freaks are out in force again demanding mandatory face nappies because "high cases".

On July 17, when mask mandates were in place & had been for the entire year, the UK recorded 54,183 COVID cases.

Average now is 44,000.

Is the "rise in cases" because millions of kids went back to school and were tested multiple times weekly or because you didn't wear a mask for that 10 yard walk from the door of the restaurant to the table?

Gee, I wonder.

The debate about whether to impose more Covid restrictions turns on whether we can do enough to stop the spread of the virus absent those restrictions. But the evidence that non-pharmaceutical interventions suppress infection is threadbare, at best. Why can't we debate that?

Novara (left-wing) got deleted & restored on YouTube within 2 hours.

Meanwhile, a deluge of "conservatives" rushed to their defense.

Novara Media repeatedly campaigned for deplatforming conservatives.

If you got banned, they'd laugh & celebrate. Why are you defending them?

Always defend free speech. Never support anti-free speech.

In this case as Novara are anti-free speech, the only action to take is nothing. You do not owe them your principles and you cannot pick a side without supporting a group against free speech.

can't think of any clearer expression of the rot of US liberalism and Dem Party politics than the white scumbags of the Lincoln Project MSNBC stars engineering a fake racist rally while Dem operatives & MSNBC analysts used it to accuse Youngkin of racism Utterly sick

That the Lincoln Project "admitted" to perpetrating this racist fraud means that it was engineered by Democrats and operatives for the Democratic Party, but everything they say is suspect. It's possible they're taking the blame for someone else, but either way, it's a huge fraud.

And I'd ask rhetorically whether the Lincoln Project admitting to having perpetrated this racist fraud while MSNBC analysts spread it all over the internet means MSNBC will stop having them on but if fleecing donors & covering up for child predators didn't, this won't.

Biden's contribution to fighting climate change.

- 85-car motorcade in Rome
- His own 244-horsepower car "the Beast"
- Each car generates 10x the normal amount CO2
- 10,000 mile return trip on Air Force One
- 2.2 million pounds of carbon total

They're taking the piss.

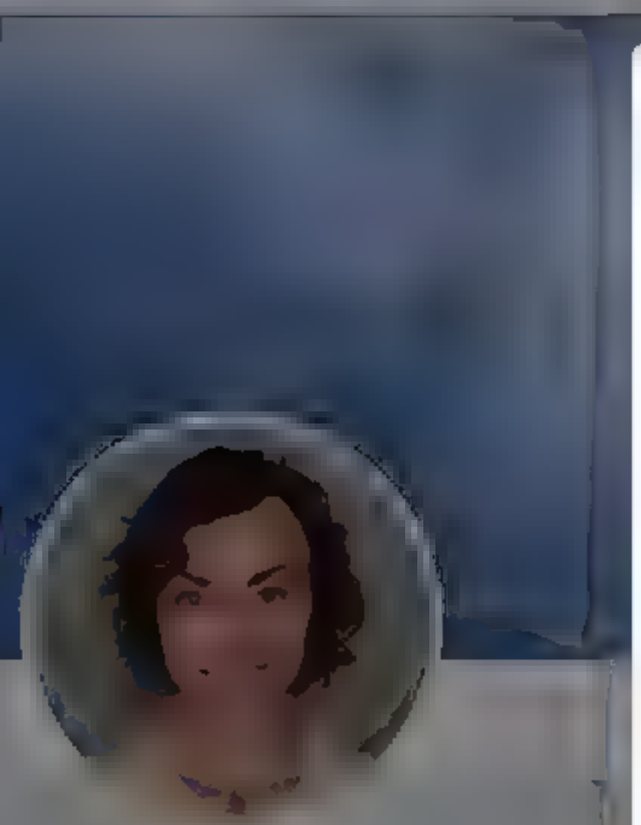
I read this so now you have to.

NSFW

Had my first lesbian experience last night!

She was soooo fucking cute and cuddly! It started out with her girlfriend spanking her, then we all cuddled for a bit, then her gf left us alone for a while. I started rubbing her belly, then her tits, and ended up rubbing her dick. After she came (completely dry), we cuddled a bit more.

There was also a fourth girl who joined in for a bit. Four trans girls in a cuddle pile.



Just had to share!

Why do posh people pay £500 a night for a room in a 5 star hotel in London but then get picked up by an Uber driver in a Ford Focus?

Get a black cab FFS, not like you can't afford it.

Many such cases

Bedside Uber is a user friendly phone app that they can order from inside their hotel room and know it's exact ETA, as opposed to needing to either order a black taxi by phone or wait outside in the rain for one to come. Not to mention knowing the exact fare for their trip

They have this as their top headline like some lunatic burst into a hospital.

Read the article and the dude had a conversation with someone who was visiting another patient nearby.

Totally misleading. Par for the course for @SkyNews

Here's an idea, blocking the ability to reply to a tweet and threatening your critics with imprisonment maybe isn't the best way of instilling confidence in "science."

Pfizer Inc. @pfizer

It's easy to get distracted by misinformation these days, but don't worry. Science has got your back.

@RaheemKassam

That conniving harridan Megan Markle planned for her "private" letter to her father to be leaked. She wrote in texts that calling him "Daddy" would "pull at the heartstrings" and claimed the highly PR-d letter did not "seem orchestrated."

These people are psychos.

> Meghan did also express a desire for it to remain secret, saying: "Given I've only ever called him 'Daddy' it may make sense to open as such (despite him being less than paternal), and in the unfortunate event that it leaked it would pull at the heartstrings."
> She added: "The rest is in the spirit of facts without seeming orchestrated simply an appeal for peace and a reminder of what s actually happened."

I am now convinced the prosecution is not trying to win the Rittenhouse trial but are, instead, just trying to foment more divisions and incite more riots in the long term. Especially the night Rittenhouse is acquitted.

They're willing to sacrifice their jobs, lifestyles & right to travel while being ruthlessly condemned & demonized by the system for what they believe in.

Whether you think they're total idiots or courageous freedom fighters, calling them "pussies" is just a feeble insult.

Imagine being scared of having a safe, well-regulated, 4-second vaccine shot, when previous generations braved gun shots for years on end to save us all from tyranny?
Anti-vaxxers really are a bunch of spineless pussies.

For this reasoned, cogent commentary by a liberal concluding Rittenhouse acted in self-defense, he got calls from the media asking if his account had been hacked.

Just SIX healthy children died with COVID in a year, says NHS data

The chances are 1 in 2 million - meaning they're more likely to get struck by lightning

Despite these facts - and the JCVI's advice - the government & NHS are pushing vaccines for children. Utter madness

Kyle Rittenhouse shot three men in self-defense:

- Two were convicted criminals,
- One was a serial pedophile
- Snopes even has to admit this.

Blow bubbles into a left wing riot, and there's a 33% chance it lands on a pedo.

If you're framing this to suggest they deserved to die. It hurts Rittenhouse w/ vigilante label. If these facts suggest the dangers of all three men and need for self defense I agree

Who are our "savages"?

The Savage Reservation is an area where the technologies of the World State have not been introduced. The "savages" still give birth, believe in gods and endure physical pain and emotional suffering. The people and customs of the Savage Reservation are modeled loosely on the traditions of Zuñi Native Americans.

Remember NIMS probably understates take up overall whilst ONS probably overstates (may be different for some ages)

So at best, vaccinated are currently testing positive at only a slightly lower rate than unvaccinated, but quite possibly higher

Listen. I am vaccinated. I believe in vaccination. Usually to stop me getting a disease. But these vaccines are not stopping transmission so to segregate societies into 'clean' and 'unclean' like Australia and Austria is the most disgusting & cruel thing I've witnessed in my life

No one has yet explained to me why they are removing the option to provide a negative test.

You can literally prove you cannot transmit the virus, but you'll be banned from a venue in favour of someone who is vaccinated, and can spread the virus.

No one can answer that question

If he was black, there would already have been threats of riots and the jurors would have been threatened and/or doxxed if they didn't acquit.

Then he'd be found not guilty. Because the only form of acceptable systematic racism that still exists is against white people.

> Ben & Jerry's @benandjerrys
> The #RittenhouseTrial displays yet again that our "justice" system is racist. How would this trial be going if he was a Black 17 yr old that crossed state lines legally carrying an AR 15 and shot 3 white protesters? We need real justice in the legal system. This isn't it.

There's a difference between actually converting and lying about doing so to stay off watch lists. Converting as an act of taqiyyah is precisely what a terrorist does. He wasn't exactly helping out at the church fête, he was a suicide bomber.

Information from court records obtained by the BBC:

1) A. Swealmeen's application for asylum to the Home Office resulted in a refusal and he challenged this before a First Tier Tribunal in 2014. That court reviews challenges against Home Office immigration decisions.

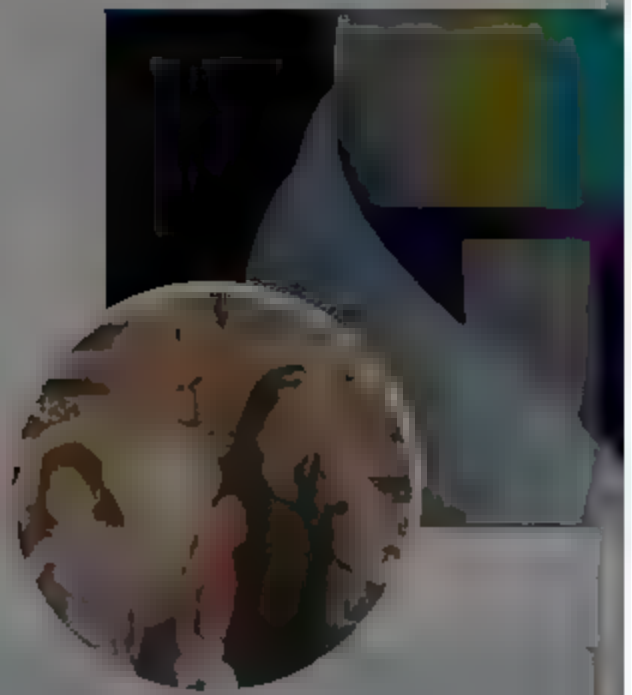
Dominic Casciani @BBCDomC · 27m



2) He had his hearing before the FT tribunal in April 2015. It rejected his case - that means an immigration judge found that the Home Office's decision to refuse Al Swealmeen asylum was sound. In other words, he should not be in the UK

Dominic Casciani @BBCDomC · 27m

3) He challenged that decision - as was his legal right - by seeking to lodge an appeal at the next court up, the Upper Tribunal. It rejected his application in

The vast majority of the British public don't care about what cricketers tweeted or said to each other 10 years ago.

Why does the media think we need to hear it 24/7?

No one cares.

Greece to ban unvaccinated from most indoor venues "even if they test negative for COVID-19."

This won't affect the vaccinated, who can still transmit the virus.

Makes perfect sense.

It is genuinely absurd that this is a topic for discussion. Peterson should have made that point, and stressed that there was a concerted effort behind mainstreaming the story, that bad people control our discourse, and that there are vastly more important things to worry about.

Some like to keep discussions in the abstract, because that way they can introduce any solution they wish to address the problem. We saw this in the wake of a "terror attack", where some MPs thought eradicating online anonymity was the solution.

Kyle Rittenhouse took down a mob of arsonists and rapists and then defeated the entire Media-Big Tech-Democrat machine. This dude is a bad ass. No two ways about it.

I just don't understand anybody being gleeful or furious over #KyleRittenhouse. It has nothing to do with anyone's life

It's just another reason for both sides to declare they despise the other guy and changes nothing

Really worried about the slippery slope. Now everyone is going to think it's okay to shoot a child rapist when he's trying to kill you. Where does this lead? I mean, will any child rapist ever be able to kill anyone without getting shot? I don't want to live in that country.

Rather, the globalists across the board brought hell to a 17-year-old's door in defence of their ideology.

Biden has no immunity for calling Rittenhouse a "white supremacist" when he was a private citizen running for president.

Rittenhouse has got to sue Biden.

GoFundMe not only allowed a fundraiser for a group (Riot Kitchen) dedicated to providing logistical support for riots, but the company itself actually donated $500. The group was arrested outside Kenosha while filling up gas containers to distribute to rioters.
